

Song of Israel

This art depicts a condensed version of “Fourfold Song” by the great Kabbalist Rabbi Avraham Yitzchak HaCohen Kook:

“There is one who sings the song of one’s soul finding everything within their soul.

Then there is one who transcends the boundary of their individual soul not finding it expansive enough and sings the song of the nation.

Then there is one who’s soul expands and spreads out beyond the boundaries of Israel to sing the song of humanity.

Then there is one who transcends even beyond this ascending in consciousness becoming one with everything and sings in union with the entire universe.

And then there is one who arises with all of these songs always harmonizing together one within the other in every moment with each one giving its voice. And this song ascends as a holy song, a song of God, the song of Israel.”
